CFSVA AGM Report

2021/2022

Exciting times at the South Australian Volunteer Fire Fighters Museum

The last 12 months have seen many changes at the museum and progress has been steady if not full on. After nearly 20 years we now have all of our appliances housed in our bespoke warehouse, and extensive collection of fire service memorabilia stowed at the museum site in Naracoorte. We're eagerly looking forward to the time when we can take these items out of storage for display to the general public.

During the year we have welcomed many visitors to the museum on a by appointment basis. Covid regulations have severely limited our ability to welcome guests on a broad scale - as restrictions reduce we are excited at the opportunity to welcome more guests to the site.

Plans for the final phase of the museum, the Interpretive Centre, are complete and have been quoted. These plans have been submitted to both State and Federal Governments seeking their support to help us achieve our goal of completing the site. We look forward to working together as the country recovers from the recent challenging times to secure the funding required to complete our important work.

The annual Memorial Service held on the 9th April this year was extremely well attended, with numbers up on previous years. This year's service was particularly poignant. For the first time since the unveiling of our memorial wall we sadly added a name to the elite group of South Australian Country Fire Service volunteers who have made the ultimate sacrifice while protecting the lives and property of their local and broader communities. The service was followed with a BBQ lunch wonderfully catered by the Naracoorte CFS Auxiliary.

On the same day as the memorial service we held our Annual General Meeting which was very productive. Our constitution was updated to fall in line with contemporary changes that have occurred. We also welcomed a number of new members to our Executive Committee - we look forward to working as a team to continuing to champion our goals of researching, recording and promoting the history of the SACFS.

The management committee of the SAVFFM always welcomes new members, items of memorabilia and visitors to the museum in Naracoorte. Visit our website at www.savffm.net.au for more information.
